IV. Application Deadline: 20 February 2022
V. Assignment Duration: 45 working days

Background:

The scale and complexity of the current challenges in Africa are unprecedented and further exacerbated by the COVID-19 pandemic. Issues such as conflict, forced migration, refugee flows, and human trafficking have presented countries in the Red Sea Region with numerous challenges.

The socio-economic impact of the COVID-19 pandemic, compounded by the upsurge in conflict and terrorist attacks, has accentuated pre-existing fragilities, threats and the humanitarian crisis in this fragile and conflict-affected region. While the Red Sea’s rapidly evolving geopolitical landscape presents a number of complex risks and challenges to the region, there also exists a range of opportunities to strengthen the humanitarian-development-peace nexus and advance sustainable peace and development. As the world adapts to the ‘new normal’, it is becoming increasingly apparent that there is a dire need to mobilize and align efforts to resolve crises, foster inclusion and build resilience while working with a broad range of partners. This requires a recalibration of efforts towards addressing structural drivers of risk across the peace-development continuum in the Red Sea.

Against this backdrop, and building on the deliberations and conclusions of the first and second editions of the Aswan Forum for Sustainable Peace and Development, the Cairo International Center for Conflict Resolution, Peacekeeping and Peacebuilding (CCCPA), in its capacity as the executive secretariat of the Aswan Forum, is launching a policy-focused report on the Red Sea Peace, Security, and Development to provide a significant understanding of the geopolitical and security trends and challenges in the region, aiming at informing national policy makers to address them and to explore regional cooperation processes towards advancing sustainable peace and development.

The report chapters will examine regional complexities and interlinkages across the peace-development continuum by mapping the nature, scale and spill-over effects of systemic risks. They will also analyze the conflict dynamics and structural drivers of conflict settings and promote interlinkages and synergies in responses, while elaborating on the opportunities of sustainable development in the region.

The aim of the report is to capacitate national, regional and continental actors with the necessary knowledge to effectively understand the new geopolitical dynamic, trends and the national/regional strategies, while supporting the policy making processes with evidence-based recommendations for mitigating risk as well as increasing resilience in the entire region.
