Project Title: Advancing Deeper National SDGs Integration in the Parliament of Uzbekistan
Project Number: 00103946
Implementing Partner: Senate of Oliy Majlis of the Republic of Uzbekistan
Start Date: 30.12.2020          End Date: 31.12.2021          PAC Meeting date: 3 November 2020

Brief Description

Effective, accountable and inclusive institutions are a vital component for responsive, inclusive, participatory and representative decision-making in the spirit of SDG 16; a foundation for sustainable peace and development. Well-capacitated Parliament is both means and mechanism to hold the government of Uzbekistan accountable for delivery of the national SDGs and building forward better from the COVID-19 crisis. It constitutes avenue of engagement between the state and its people, critical to foster public trust, social cohesion, and resilience for the way ahead.

Following December 2019 Parliamentary elections in Uzbekistan, there is a call and momentum to enhance the role and capability of the Parliament (Oliy Majlis) to carry out its core functions and responsibilities. Therefore, the project aims to support 1) the Parliament whose institutional capacity, structures and work processes are fit for the purpose of ensuring the effectiveness, accountability and equitability of government’s sustainable development reforms; 2) more effective parliamentary oversight of the implementation of the reforms; 3) quality enabling legislation, which would prevent an excess of bylaws and decrees. Each will require – and will present an opportunity for – significantly enhanced citizen engagement and women’s participation: as the national development strategy 2017-2021 recognizes, a precondition for the effective application of both remedies identified is significant improvement in the quality of the representation function at all levels.

Contributing Outcome (UNDAF/CPD 2021-2025):
UNSCDF 1. By 2025, all people and groups in Uzbekistan, especially the most vulnerable, demand and benefit from enhanced accountable, transparent, inclusive and gender responsive governance systems and rule of law institutions for a life free from discrimination, violence and threats.
Indicative Output(s) with gender marker: Output 1.3. GEN 2.

I. DEVELOPMENT CHALLENGE

Since 2017, Uzbekistan’s public governance, political and social institutions are being reformed under the 2017-2021 Development Strategy framework which streamlines the transformations in five priority areas: improving public and civic institutions, ensuring rule of law, liberalizing economy, optimizing social service sector and fostering human rights, religious and ethnic tolerance. A series of government decisions (presidential decrees and government resolutions) tackle some of the most systemic development challenges - creating an enabling environment for private entrepreneurship and reforming the judicial system, governance and civil service areas. Greater emphasis was placed on civil service, creating opportunities for citizens inquiries and grievances, lifting barriers for entrepreneurs/businesses, fighting bureaucracy and corruption.

The support to democratic development is expected to create a basis for advancing electoral reforms and fix existing legal shortcomings and procedural limitations in the electoral process, while strengthening the capacity of the Parliament to implement their legislative, oversight and representative functions. This process will provide unique opportunities for the country to further improve electoral process, develop law amendments to guarantee full participation of all citizens, especially first-time voters, people with disabilities and women in elections and keep the government accountable via transparently elected members of parliament and local representatives. At the same time, it will create efficient checks and balances through ensuring strong parliamentary development at the national, regional and local levels.

The reforms pay special attention to ensuring gender equality and empowering women. For instance, 16 legal acts focused on women empowerment and promotion of women’s interests were adopted by the President, Parliament, and the Cabinet of Ministers of Uzbekistan in 2018-2019, and only 32 legal acts of same power were adopted in 1991-2017. In August 2019, the laws "On equal rights and opportunities of women and men" and "On protection of women from harassment and violence" were adopted setting a new level of gender equality policy in Uzbekistan.

Series of reforms aimed at further improvement of the national legislative and rulemaking process are implemented, followed by the Decree of the President "On adoption of the Concept for Improvement of Normative-making Process", which sets the comprehensive framework on establishing efficient check and balances system for new decision-making mechanisms. The mass media sector demonstrated qualitative changes in its performance. Liberalization of information policy have provided a ground for a private on-line mass media resources and bloggers to become real power, making positive impact on decision makers at central and local administrations. The executive branch of the government pays attention to the development of independent mass media and individual bloggers segment and considers them as a reflection of public opinion on the impact of the reforms.

The legal framework was recently changed with the adoption of a unified Election Code in July 2019 based on which the 2019 elections were conducted. For the first time the 2019 elections were observed by such a large number of international observers (274 observes from the OSCE/ODIHR observation mission, 551 observers from other international organisations and 41 foreign countries). Following December 2019 Parliamentary elections, there is a call and momentum to enhance the role and capability of the Parliament (Oliy Majlis) to carry out its core functions and responsibilities. In the address to the nation on 24 January 2020, President Mirziyoyev highlighted that ‘democratic reforms are the only right way forward’; thus, it is critical to continue learning and based on best international standards to build the new Uzbekistan. The key principle in this transformation is to hear from the society itself, calling for active citizenship and participatory decision-making.
A strong Parliament is key to inclusion and social cohesion during reforms and building better post-COVID-19

The President’s 2018 address to the Oliy Majlis was a strong indication of acceptance at the highest levels that pursuit of a more sustainable, market-oriented and inclusive growth model, long-term investment strategies, and re-allocation of public expenditure cannot be achieved without the creation of a more inclusive and equal democratic society. The address stressed the importance of building public ownership of the reforms; broad-based cooperation and support; long-term public and private engagement; and more equal distribution of the reforms’ benefits. Working to build future social cohesion and looking to benefit from the country’s youth dividend (with 63% of the population estimated to be under the age of 35) will be needed to help prevent any adverse social consequences arising from the transformation.

The separation of powers and the existence of strong state institutions outside the executive branch are relatively novel concepts in Uzbekistan. Significant capacity and resource gaps exist in the Oliy Majlis and the regional assemblies - kengashes – both at the level of elected officials (many are new) and at the level of the secretariat. At the level of the Oliy Majlis, many of these are identified and analysed in the 2019 report of the Westminster Foundation for Democracy1. Although specifically addressed at the previous parliament, it seems that many of the problems identified persist, and apply to perhaps even to a greater extent, in the kengashes. Given the extent to which powers are devolved – and the commitment to further devolution- these capacity gaps represent a significant obstacle to the implementation of the reform agenda.

The secretariats serving both chambers of the Oliy Majlis and associated institutions have struggled to secure the level of human and other resources necessary to achieve the goals set out by the President through appropriate analytical, research, and clerical capacity for their members. Nor are the rules of procedure, and ways of working of the institution – including its use of technology – equal to the task. The understanding of the requirements and powers vested in the role has not been fully internalized among MPs yet. In addition, as identified by UNDP’s existing analyses, parliamentary legislative, representation and oversight functions are often disconnected from the activities of deputies of sub-national councils of deputies (kengashes).

There is a clear and related need, momentum and an opportunity, for Parliament to assume an active role in promoting women’s equal participation in governance, policy and reform processes which is key to ensuring lasting economic and social progress. The Actions Strategy prioritizes increasing the socio-political activity of women, strengthening their role in the government and society, increasing economic independence and ensuring the employment of women and young people, especially those living in rural areas.

Strong, trusted and accountable democratic institutions engaging citizens; a transparent and predictable legal environment; and eradicating corruption are key to building and maintaining social cohesion throughout the transition and the recovery from the COVID-19 crisis. However, capacity gaps both in the central bureaucracy of the ministries and regional-level administration remain an obstacle to the speedy and effective implementation of the reform agenda. A lack of effective counterweight to implementation issues at the level of the regional and national bureaucracies resulting from capacity gaps of the Oliy Majlis and the kengashes also remains an obstacle to the realization of Uzbekistan’s reform agenda. The key resulting challenge is that the legislative and oversight functions of the Parliament are not fully realized, both at national and regional levels.

First, the role of the Parliament in lawmaking and rulemaking process is still nascent. For example, 38% of adopted legal acts have been developed by the Cabinet of Ministers, 33% by ministries and agencies, 17% are legal acts by the President and only 5% are laws and codes formulated by Parliament. Moreover, because adopted legal acts are usually not self-implementing, supporting by-laws by ministries and agencies are required. Basically, the executive branch is leading the process of lawmaking and monitoring of implementation. An effective system of checks and balances implies the need for a more prominent role of the legislative branch in lawmaking and rulemaking, as well as in oversight of the lawmaking of other entities.

Secondly, there is scope to expand and systematize the Parliament's oversight function. By finding new ways of working to hold – on behalf of people – the Government to account for quality of reforms as well as pandemic response and recovery efforts, the Oliy Majlis can build trust among the public and establish itself as a key element of the system of democratic controls. Currently the oversight function is implemented in following forms: inquiries by senators and deputies, analytical activities of commissions, parliamentary hearings, parliamentary inquiries, and government hour (a newly introduced form of question time). However, such instruments as inquiries of senators and MPs, and parliamentary investigation are used to a very limited extent. Making these instruments available systemically, and improving capacities for their use, is indicated.

There is increasing role of the Parliament in monitoring the progress towards the SDGs with the newly established bicameral Parliamentary Commission on the Implementation of Sustainable Development Goals, led by the Head of the Senate. During its first sitting the Commission reviewed the draft Voluntary National Review Report of Uzbekistan, ahead its presentation to the HLPF. It is very important to ensure effective implementation of the parliamentary oversight of the SDGs. The reform agenda also makes oversight of budget and anticorruption policies essential at this point of development. Therefore, the Commission on the SDGs and the Committee on Budget and Economic Reforms, Judicial and Legal Issues and Anticorruption Reforms Committees present the most strategic opportunities for support.

Third, the representation function of the Parliament can be enhanced, including via better definition of and support for the respective roles and functions of the Oliy Majlis and the kengashes and their relationships and interactions with communities.

- COVID-19 crisis intensifying the need for revitalized democratic processes to bridge the gap between people and the state

The COVID-19 pandemic has hit the world already facing a cascade of tipping points: social, economic, and scientific caused by complex and interconnected challenges we face globally. National parliaments, including in Uzbekistan, are facing an enormous challenge and opportunity at once to ensure that the long-term recovery does not stray from shared global compass of the SDGs.

The first confirmed case of the virus was detected in Uzbekistan on 15 March 2020. The Government took swift decisive actions and following confirmation of the outbreak, closed learning centers, cancelled all public gatherings and introduced more restrictive distancing measures leading to the closure of public transportation, non-essential businesses, and public spaces. With slight release of lockdown measures from mid-June, surge in new cases prompted Government to renew lockdown and support the already very stretched health system, despite the harsh effects on the economy and most vulnerable. On 15 May 2020, there were 2,652 confirmed COVID-19 cases, while in 2 months this number multiplied 7 times, reaching as of 17 July 15,607 cases.

The crisis has progressively disrupted the economy, to a point where considerable domestic activities are now at a standstill. Initial estimates are that as of March 2020 about 475,000, or 85 percent of small businesses, have been temporarily closed and that 1.3 percent of the population, or 448,000 people, may already have fallen into poverty. As in all countries, the impact of the COVID-19 outbreak on the poorest and most vulnerable has been severe.

To rise to the simultaneous challenges of overseeing COVID-19 recovery and reforms, the Oly Majlis will need to reinvent and reinvigorate its way of working. This requires it to reassert their role as vital democratic organ that legitimately determines and qualifies people’s needs and ensures that these are met through government action during the volatile times ahead. Through effective representation and creating real opportunities for people’s participation in its process, the Oly Majlis can exercise stewardship over the vision for the future aligned with the 2030 and Uzbekistan’s reform agendas.

The restrictions on face-to-face interaction during the COVID-19 crisis has intensified the need for parliament to establish new and systematic ways of engaging with the public, including in the online setting. At the same time, given the deep inequalities exposed by the pandemic, it is also critical to ensure the engagement of those at a risk of being left behind: digital engagement cannot be a one-size-fit-all answer to public engagement as it risks excluding entire groups based on demographic and geographic factors (i.e. people without access to internet and those with limited digital literacy).

II. Strategy

The current project document outlines an approach to advancing effective, accountable and inclusive governance in Uzbekistan through a strategy that brings together improving electoral processes and enhancing the representation and oversight roles of parliament. It builds on recent and existing initiatives, findings and lessons learnt, and provides a targeted yet phased approach to democratic strengthening in the country, towards strengthening effectiveness and efficiency of development programmes, especially those aimed at the achievement of SDGs and leaving no-one behind.

It is anchored on the theory of change that democratic processes in Uzbekistan could be advanced:

- if the public are given the space and skills to effectively articulate their needs towards elected representatives;
- if the Oly Majlis and its members (and public officials in general) are able to respond in an agile manner to the evolving needs of the public and are aware of good practices and solutions to development issues, and equipped with leadership skills to advance new thinking and mediate across conflicting demands,
- if the Oly Majlis is supported in addressing gender inequalities, reducing the corruption risks provoked by weak and framework law-making and if checks and balances are effectively instituted and applied through effective oversight mechanisms, including in the budget process; and if the capacity of the Oly Majlis and the regional kengashes to mainstream the SDGs in their processes is improved

Then Uzbekistan will be much more likely to strengthen the rule of law and reduce the space for corruption through more effective and transparent laws and legislation, and ensure transparent and accountable budgeting for SDG implementation; as well as to ensure better opportunities for women and girls in realization of their potential;
Then Uzbekistan’s implementation of the SDGs the national reform agenda will benefit from a broader broad-based ownership, greater legitimacy and more accountable delivery and credibility of the Oliy Majlis with its own citizens will be stronger;

Leading to the progress of the Oliy Majlis towards its goal of becoming an inclusive and trusted SDG 16 institution, effectively serving the public interests,

Leading to better SDG and national reform outcomes, including for those previously excluded or left behind.

III. RESULTS AND PARTNERSHIPS

Expected Results

The above assumptions are expected to lead to the following results:

- Oliy Majlis and regional kengashes have the tools and capacity to mainstream the SDGs within their processes
- Oliy Majlis has the tools and capacity needed to perform effective legislative scrutiny; promote gender equality through its core functions; reduce corruption through effective legislation and oversight; and exercise effective oversight of public finances
- More transparent, inclusive and effective innovative parliamentary processes through participatory engagement with citizens and stakeholders on SDGs

The project will advance democratic reforms in Uzbekistan through two integrated pillars: i) strengthening representation, legislation and oversight functions of the parliament; and ii) advancing digital transformation in parliamentary systems to support business continuity, public engagement, and oversight.

Parliamentary strengthening

The outcome of the other two components is that the Oliy Majlis will play an enhanced role in legislating for, monitoring and promoting accountability for the 2030 Agenda, its Sustainable Development Goals, and related national commitments through responsive inclusive, participatory and representative decision-making processes, including enhanced engagement of women and civil society. Like all national parliaments, the Oliy Majlis has an opportunity, and a constitutional responsibility, to play a significant role in supporting and monitoring SDG implementation. To deliver on this mandate in the light of the challenges of the COVID-19 crisis and recovery as well as the country’s ongoing reform, it is also facing a need to reinvent its ways of working.

The Oliy Majlis itself has recognized this opportunity and challenge; its Leadership has engaged in an ongoing consultation with UNDP Uzbekistan which has led to the formulation of the present proposal. The Oliy Majlis has expressed interest in and commitment to being part of the proposed initiative and has been proactive on the nomination of target committees and commissions. Regular consultations will continue throughout the project, leading to further definition and prioritization of activities according to the needs and priorities of the Oliy Majlis.

The project will support the Oliy Majlis to engage proactively in its country’s reforms by strengthening the parliamentary institution, processes, and personnel; forming systematic partnerships with civil society; and providing a forum in which state institutions are held to account for their effectiveness and inclusiveness in the delivery of the services necessary to achieve the SDGs by 2030. Given the high pace of the anticorruption reforms and fiscal reforms, the focus will be on these two commissions. To ensure effective oversight of SDGs support will also be provided to SDG commission.

The programme is envisaged for a longer-term engagement with the Oliy Majlis over a 5-year period from 2020-2025, covering the near-full parliamentary term. Engaging MPs from the outset is expected to be beneficial in terms of agenda setting and, specifically, planning and scheduling lawmaking and oversight work around the SDGs in the coming years.

From a programmatic perspective, a new parliament - with more than a half of 150 deputies in the Legislative Chamber serving for the first time – may present an entry point to meet the challenges presented by the reform agenda. New MPs and a significant increase in women and younger representatives may translate to greater willingness to move to new ways of working that conform more closely to international good parliamentary practice.

The secretariats and associated institutions, particularly human resources necessary to achieve the goals set out by the President can be expanded. Potentially, through appropriate analytical, research, and clerical capacity for their members. Similar concerns are reported at the level of the regional councils (kengashes), with the added complexity created by the multi-layered accountabilities of their khokim (regional governor). If the Oliy Majlis and the kengashes are not strengthened, an obstacle to implementation of the reform agenda – the lack, apart from the presidential administration, of any effective counterweight to implementation issues at the level of the regional and national bureaucracies – will continue to exist.

Output 1. Strengthened representation, legislation and oversight functions of the Parliament.

Activity 1.1. Enhance capacities of the Oliy Majlis and regional kengashes to support and monitor the implementation of the SDGs and related national reforms. This will include the following:

- Identify and address in detail the structural, resourcing and capacity needs of the legislative bodies of Uzbekistan, including each chamber of the Oliy Majlis and the regional kengashes (referred to collectively henceforth for convenience as “Parliament”).
- Convene, in partnership with the Inter-Parliamentary Unit, a series of self-assessment exercises for the Parliament, using the methodology of the UNDP/IPU SDG and Parliaments Self-Assessment Toolkit, which has been translated into the Uzbek language. The self-assessments will seek to identify in detail the challenges and opportunities faced by Parliament and its Members, committees and commissions, and the secretariat. Baselines will be established through focus group sessions, followed by evaluating existing efforts and effectiveness of SDG work, and developing recommendations for enhancing Parliament’s fitness-for-purpose and institutional capacity to engage on the SDGs.
- Develop roadmaps for building institutional capacity to promote and monitor SDG implementation, according to the methodology of the UNDP/GOPAC/ISDB Handbook for Parliaments on the SDGs. Both methodologies aim to empower parliaments to assert national ownership of the problem analysis and its solutions, identify ways of promoting greater citizen engagement, and contain strong elements of gender mainstreaming.
- Conduct foundational capacity building for MPs on the SDGs and their related responsibilities and tools
- Prepare an SDG Parliamentary Action Plan and/or SDG implementation and monitoring tool.

Activity 1.2 Enhance the gender mainstreaming capacity of the Oliy Majlis, including through:

- Integrate gender-sensitivity component into the parliamentary SDG self-assessment to consider existing processes, mechanisms and rules from a gender perspective
- Support gender-sensitization of parliamentary strategic plans and policies
• Support compliance on CEDAW and related commitments (incl. political participation pillar of the WPS agenda) through training to MPs and technical staff on CEDAW using UN-IPU resources on gender mainstreaming in parliament
• Support systematization of gender mainstreaming in legislation though the development of:
  o a legislative gender sensitivity assessment guideline / toolkit
  o lawmaking procedure for all bills to undergo gender analysis

Activity 1.3 Improve capacities and resources of Members of the Oliy Majlis and its selected Standing Committees to initiate, review and adopt effective legislation giving effect to the SDGs, and perform oversight of the implementation of laws and budgets by the Executive.

This activity will target the Budget and Economic Reforms Committee of the Senate; the Anti-Corruption and Judicial Affairs Committee of the Legislative Chamber; and the bi-cameral SDGs Commission to integrate the SDGs through more effective legislation. This will include the following:

• Put in place levels of research, analysis, and report-writing support - reflective of international good practice for the committee. This will include capacitiation on conducting regulatory impact assessments, as well as on conducting evidence-based analysis.
• Capacitate the chair and members of the targeted committee through a series of trainings on how best to effectively and inclusively discharge the legislative function, and other committee responsibilities. The component will support the development of mid- and long-term legislative work plans.
• Develop draft Rules of Procedures on parliamentary monitoring of activities of Government agencies and local administrations and expertise of their legal acts.
• Develop a step-by-step manual on the legislative process for MPs and staff, including guidelines to ensure coherence of legislative drafting and sample analyses of compliance with such requirements and guidelines.
• Support to enhancement of independence of and public trust in the Parliament through transparent processes in legislative consultations, formulation and communication, including through streamlining legislative process from drafting of the bill, to public hearings/consultations, subsequent amendments through committee debates, and final endorsement of the bill, all available on real-time basis in the Parliament’s websites and mass-media.
• Building capacity of the Senate Budget and Economic Reforms Committee to carry out effective oversight throughout the annual budget cycle.
• Facilitate the hearings and consultations throughout the budget cycle, engaging the public and ensuring transparency.

Activity 1.4: Enhance representation and relations between Members of Parliaments and Constituents. This includes the following:

• Facilitate interaction of MPs with constituencies, local governments, business sector, and other stakeholders through: i) building capacities of MPs and secretariat members to cooperate with stakeholder groups to organize mobile public hearings in support of legislation in select regions and districts; ii) supporting introduction of digital tools including a well-maintained website of the Parliament and individual MPs to directly connect the public to MPs and Parliamentary Committees who can respond to their needs and concerns, for MPs to share their advocacies and performance, and online and mobile applications to allow direct feedback between constituents and parliamentary representatives.
• Support participation of stakeholder groups (e.g., women, youth, persons with disabilities) in public hearings for legislations and policy frameworks that are relevant to their well-being.
• Proactively engage with and support local networks of stakeholders and civil society organizations to ensure representation of their needs in the parliament.
• Support the establishment of processes for decentralized public hearings / mobile parliament/committee sessions.

Output 2. Modernized parliamentary systems to support business continuity, public engagement, and oversight

The COVID-19 pandemic highlighted the need for agile systems and institutions that will allow public sector institutions and decision-making bodies to continue functioning effectively in the midst of disasters and lockdowns. The pandemic has also impacted elections in many countries, contributing to postponement or delays, reduced voter participation, and created serious public trust issues among elected officials in many countries. This output will include the following activities:

Activity 2.1.: Support to the development of the strategy for digitalisation of Parliament, which will provide the long-term framework for digitalizing key functions of the Parliament, considering including the following:
  i) establishing an open data platform and service that provides information on pending bills, existing legislations, MP performance, Parliamentary expenditures, among others;
  ii) a regulatory and procedural framework that will facilitate the engagement and participation of the Parliament and the MPs specifically through digital means, including allowing MPs to vote on critical measures remotely;

Activity 2.2: Provide targeted learning and coaching to MPs and technical committees and staff on on-line data collection and analysis, digital transformation and approaches, and application of digital tools and technologies in parliamentary functions and procedures.

Activity 2.3: Enhance accountability through innovative digital technologies, enabling live online viewing of parliamentary debates, and publishing regular budgetary allocations and spending of MPs in the Parliament.

Resources Required to Achieve the Expected Results

The project activities will be organized by the project team as well as experts. This project is funded by Funding Windows framework of UNDP, which is supported by by Denmark, Luxemburg, Norway, Republic of Korea, Sweden, and Switzerland.

The majority of planned activities will foresee the analytical research, data analysis and preparation of Policy Papers, reports, preparing of draft legislative acts and other documents, etc. The Project will involve leading local and international experts in the main areas of activities. For this reason, Project will ensure the platform of constructive dialogue among national partners, ministries and departments, academia, local and foreign experts, including specialists from HQs and regional offices of UNDP and other UN Agencies.

When additional donor resources are mobilized, the project will also provide technical assistance on digital transformation of the Parliament, professional literature and subscriptions to leading international journals and other capacity building materials and tools.

Partnerships

In implementing the project, UNDP will seek active partnerships with relevant organizations and experts, particularly those with experience in working in Uzbekistan. The project will coordinate with organizations such as OSCE and Council of Europe and seek partnerships wherever this is practical and possible, in order to benefit from specialized expertise and experience.

The project demonstrates complementarity with other engagement, with strong interest from the US, UK, EU, and Germany to engage in parliamentary development. Support from the funding windows will likely catalyse the CO’s ability to set a broader, new area of programming, contributing to the strong positioning of UNDP in a rather new area, of democracy support and building inclusive institutions in Uzbekistan.

The project will have a catalytical impact broadening and strengthening UNDP partnerships and inclusive processes both within the UN and outside, including with emerging civil society organizations, towards the delivery of the Strategic Plan 2018-2021 in Uzbekistan. The proposal calls for ‘supply side’ support to the Parliament and complementary ‘demand side’ capacity building for civil society. The proposed pilot will use the SP’s Signature Solution 2 to strengthen inclusive and accountable governance system in Uzbekistan by leveraging UNDP’s extensive experience in integrated support to inclusive processes and institutions, governance innovation, resources it has produced over the years and past programming.

Risks and Assumptions

Neither the Oliy Majlis nor society will change immediately. The proposed initiative is based on an understanding that assistance needs to be both well-grounded in an understanding of the political environment and be systematic. It must consist of more than just a series of stranded events such as one-off knowledge exchanges. It requires an element of flexibility to adapt to changing political and social circumstance, and it is anticipated that it will also need a degree of modularity (to grow as more resources become available). Finally, it needs to be planned and implemented over a period of years, at least for the five-year term of the current Oliy Majlis, and evaluated for its impact over that entire period.

As recognized by the Common Principles for Parliamentary Support

3, endorsed by the Oliy Majlis, the creation of an effective coordination mechanism, chaired by the Parliament itself, is essential for the implementation of this such assistance. Resources are precious and must be well-targeted, avoiding duplication.

Stakeholder Engagement

The following stakeholders are particularly important for achieving results throughout the project:

- Legislative Chamber of Oliy Majlis, comprising 150-members and 12 committees (with 9 to 16 members). Issues within the joint authority of both Chambers are considered, as a rule, first by the Legislative Chamber and then by the Senate. The exclusive powers of the Legislative Chamber include decisions related to the activities of the Legislative Chamber; adoption of the resolutions in political, social or economic areas, as well as on matters associated with internal or foreign policy of the state. Furthermore, approval of the candidates proposed by Prime Minister for the position of the member of the Government.

- Senate of Oliy Majlis comprising 84 members indirectly elected by 12 regional councils, the city of Tashkent and the Republic of Karakalpakstan, as well as 16 senators appointed by the President. The senate is composed of 7 committees. The exclusive powers of the Senate include: election of the judges for the constitutional and supreme courts on the nomination of the president of the republic; appointment of the highest-ranking officials on the nomination of the president; decisions related to the activities of the Senate; adoption of the resolutions in political, social or economic spheres, as well as on internal or foreign policy. High influence, high interest.

- Secretariat and technical personnel of both chambers of the Oliy Majlis responsible for organisational, legal, informational, analytical, material-technical, administrative and budget activities
- The institute of legislative issues and parliamentary research under Oliy Majlis. Medium influence, high interest.

The project will impact indirectly the following groups:

a. Voters, including vulnerable groups such as women, people with disabilities and first-time voters who will benefit of improved parliamentary procedures and processes.

b. Non-governmental organisations and CSOs, which will be more actively involved in the Parliamentary processes

South-South and Triangular Cooperation (SSC/TrC)

This initiative will be also catalytic to build potential for South-South and Triangular cooperation and knowledge exchange in Central Asia. Collaboration opportunities are already being explored with INTER PARES, the EU Global Project to Strengthen the Capacity of Parliaments which facilitates peer exchanges between partner parliaments and the European Parliament. Partnership will also be sought with the International Parliamentary Union. The project will also collaborate with UNDP Oslo Governance Center. It is expected that the project will involve resources of the most of those countries with which Uzbekistan has a long-term strategic relationship. UNDP Regional hub for Europe and Central Asia in Istanbul, which has qualified personnel and experience of working with the countries of Central Asia and the CIS, is to become an important partner in dissemination of the best practices and techniques related to Parliamentary development.

Knowledge

In addition to soft component which includes capacity building for MPs and other concerned parties through trainings, round tables and seminars, knowledge and experience sharing will be carried out by the project through:

- Purchase of professional literature for the needs of members of Parliament;
- Online sharing of analytical information prepared by Project;
- Printing and publishing analytical materials, brochures, infographics and other digital content developed by Project;
- Professional translation of international treaties, except UN treaties texts and other documents into Russian and Uzbek languages;
- Upgrade of websites of the national partners to increase their value, make them more user friendly and improve their content;
- Press coverage of national partners and UNDP events supported by Project.

Whenever possible, the project will conduct presentations of project publications with a variety of project stakeholders. After the project completion, the tools, infographics, brochures and other literature created with the Project’s support and intellectual contributions of experts will remain with the parliamentarians for their use.

Sustainability and Scaling Up

In localisation and integration of SDGs across the sectors, the project will be using existing long-term partnership contacts with the both Chambers of Oliy Majlis, which will enable the project to implement proposed activities in the framework of human rights-based cooperation with aforementioned institutions in all components of the project. This will also guarantee the sustainability of the results of project activities in the future, as aforementioned legislative bodies will be directly involved in the formulation and implementation of the actions proposed under the project and can influence its further replication and scale-up in future.

The project is categorized under GEN 2, with a cross-cutting goal to increase participation of women, youth and people with disabilities in decision-making throughout implementation. Through the cooperation with the the Parliament of Uzbekistan and other concerned stakeholders, the project will promote and advocate for the implementation of the law on Equal Rights and Opportunities for Women and Men and ensure the CEC adopts mechanisms for compulsory publication of gender disaggregated data when reporting on the inclusion of women in elections as per requirement of the 1997 UN CEDAW Committee’s General Recommendation No. 23. The parliamentary component of the project will identify, convene and capacitate MPs and civil society to develop a methodology to assess the gender impact of legislation. In addition, the project will assure that gender representation and gender impact is considered in all the project’s activities, including through gender analysis and maintaining records of project beneficiaries by gender.

The project will build on earlier parliamentary strengthening programming and support broad-based public consultation campaigns inclusive of vulnerable groups. By organizing meetings between MPs and civil society, including local CSOs, it will support the establishment of systematic knowledge exchange channels and feedback loops for SDG accountability; an important mechanism for ensuring that no one is left behind.

IV. PROJECT MANAGEMENT

Cost Efficiency and Effectiveness

Within many previous joint initiatives and projects UNDP had already effectively cooperated with the Parliament of Uzbekistan, including through the joint project “Support to enhancement of law making, rulemaking and RIA/Phase-2 (RIA-2)” that is being undertaken now.

The project implementation will be conducted in an efficient manner, ensuring an innovative pan-governance approach and implementing in a coherent and synergetic manner electoral support and parliamentary development programming. Through this integrated approach, efficiencies of scale will be ensured, maximising results delivery with the limited available resources.

Funding window resources will be complementing the 294,925 USD mobilized from other sources during 2019-2020 (EAD 166,925 USD/Swiss Development Cooperation 46,000 USD for electoral support, and UNDP TRAC of 82,000 USD for both components).

UNDP will be working on aid coordination among other international organizations within regular meetings with participation of all major actors involved in supporting project activities to identify synergies and avoid overlaps. The Senate will help mobilize other donors and international partners to cost-share the project activities, especially, with regard to study-tours and visiting experts, as well as preparation of knowledge products. Cost-effectiveness has been factored into all planned project activities. Project will work to maximize the impact of each spent unit funds and to get quality results at the lowest possible cost using the principle of value for money.

Project Management
The project will be implemented under the full UNDP support to NIM. The Senate of Oliy Majlis of the Republic of Uzbekistan will be the Implementing Partner. The Senate will retain overall responsibility for this nationally managed project; the Senate will appoint the National Project Coordinator (NPC). Direct responsibility of the NPC will be provision of strategic advice and coordination of the project activity taking into account interests of the Department.

The project will be physically located in the Tashkent city. To ensure synergies and consolidation of efforts the project will work closely with other on-going UNDP projects on electoral assistance, human rights, women empowerment, regulatory impact assessment etc.

The procurement of goods and services and the recruitment of project personnel by the UNDP Country Office shall be in accordance with the UNDP regulations, rules, policies and procedures. The goods procured within the framework of the Project and necessary for the implementation of its activities, in particular IT equipment, software & office furniture shall be transferred to the ownership of the Implementing Partner, unless the Project Board decides otherwise or the goods have been procured from the funds provided by third parties and the agreements with them stipulate other arrangements. The relevant provisions of the Standard Basic Assistance Agreement (SBAA) between the Government of Uzbekistan & the UNDP, signed by Parties on 10 June 1993, incl. the provisions on liability and privileges & immunities, shall apply to the provision of such support services.

Any claim or dispute arising under or in connection with the provision of support services by the UNDP country office in accordance with this document shall be handled pursuant to the relevant provisions of the SBAA.

Audit Arrangements: The Audit will be conducted in accordance with the established UNDP procedures set out in the Programming and Finance manuals by the legally recognized auditor.

Use of institutional logos on project deliverables: In order to accord proper acknowledgement to UNDP for providing funding, UNDP should appear on all relevant project publications, including among others, project hardware purchased with UNDP funds. Any citation on publications regarding projects funded by UNDP should also accord proper acknowledgement to UNDP. The UNDP logo should be more prominent – and separated from any other logo, if possible, as UN visibility is important for security purposes. The Project will not develop its own logo.

Implementation Arrangements

The Senate and UNDP will be represented in the Project Board. The overall guidance and strategic decisions related to the project implementation will be made by the Project Board. The Project Board will be responsible for making by consensus management decisions for a project when guidance is required by the Project Manager, including recommendations for UNDP/ the Senate approval of project plans and revisions.

The Project Management Unit will handle day-to-day management of activities.

The Project Management Unit (PMU) will consist of the following experts and staff:

- Project Manager – National staff member, managing the project day-to-day. PM will have manager role in ATLAS, prepare AWPs and financial reports.
- Task Manager– National staff member, assisting the Project Manager.
- Admin/Finance Assistant – National staff member, supporting all administrative and financial aspects of the project.

In addition, a number of short-term national and international experts will be deployed to support specific aspects of the project implementation.

4 It is recommended that projects use output indicators from the Strategic Plan IRRF, as relevant, in addition to project-specific results indicators. Indicators should be disaggregated by sex or for other targeted groups where relevant.
VI. MONITORING AND EVALUATION

In accordance with UNDP’s programming policies and procedures, the project will be monitored through the following monitoring and evaluation plans:

The project will be subject to UNDP’s monitoring and evaluation procedures. UNDP will as a part of project assurance role, regularly share its findings with the Project Board. Some of the methods that will be used in monitoring progress towards the outcome include:

- Project Board meetings for regular review of progress towards targets;
- Quarterly written assessment reports on progress towards targets;
- Based on the initial risk log, a project risk log shall be prepared and regularly updated;
- A project lessons learned log shall be activated and regularly updated to ensure on-going learning and adaptation within the organisation and to facilitate the preparation of the lessons learned report at the end of the project;
- The project will review the data quarterly and evidence collected on a regular basis and make corrections as required. Any significant programming corrections that require a decision will be raised at the next Project Board meeting. Progress data against the results indicators will be collected and analysed to assess the progress of the project in achieving the pre-defined outputs.

6 Changes to a project budget affecting the scope (outputs), completion date, or total estimated project costs require a formal budget revision that must be signed by the project board. In other cases, the UNDP programme manager alone may sign the revision provided the other signatories have no objection. This procedure may be applied for example when the purpose of the revision is only to re-phase activities among years.

VIII. Governance and Management Arrangements

The Project will be undertaken using UNDP's National Implementation Modality (NIM) with CO support.

The Project Board will be co-chaired by the Chairperson of Senate and the UNDP Resident Representative. The Project Board will be responsible for making by consensus management decisions for the project when guidance is required by the Project Manager, including recommendation for UNDP/Senate approval of project workplans, budget and revisions. In order to ensure UNDP's ultimate accountability, Project Board decisions should be made in accordance with standards that shall ensure best value for money, fairness, integrity transparency and effective international coordinating. Other stakeholders, particularly from the government and civil society, maybe invited to participate as well.

Detailed roles and responsibilities of the Project Board are provided in Annex 2 of this Project Document.

This Board contains three roles, including:

1) An Executive: Senate of Oliy Majlis representing the project ownership.

2) Senior Supplier: UNDP Resident Representative (CO Uzbekistan) representing the interests of the parties concerned which provide funding and/or technical expertise to the project. The Senior Supplier’s primary function within the Board is to provide guidance regarding the technical feasibility of the project.

3) Senior Beneficiaries: Senate and Legislative Chamber of Oliy Majlis representing the interests of those who will ultimately benefit from the project. The Senior Beneficiary’s primary function within the Board is to ensure the realization of project results from the perspective of project beneficiaries.

Project Assurance is the responsibility of each Project Board member, however the role can be delegated. The Project Assurance role supports the Project Board by carrying out objective and independent project oversight and monitoring functions. This role ensures appropriate project management milestones are managed and completed. UNDP will have a key role in the quality assurance of the project, including from ACPIS, Regional Hub and CO Uzbekistan.

The Project Support role provides project administration, management and technical support to the Project Manager as required by the needs of the project. It is necessary to keep Project Support and Project Assurance roles separate in order to maintain the independence of Project Assurance.

The Project Board will convene at least annually to hold regular project reviews to assess the performance of the project, achievement of targets and review of the Multi-Year Work Plan to ensure realistic budgeting over the life of the project. In advance of such meetings, UNDP shall provide an Annual Status Report on the project’s progress and financial expenditures/budget.
